Glendale Career College Now Enrolling for RN to BSN Program

New Program Answers Growing Demand for Nurses with Bachelor's Degrees in the Health Care Field

GLENDALE, Calif.—After launching its Registered Nursing program in July 2016, Glendale Career College has again expanded its offerings to include a new RN to BSN program. Tailored for licensed Registered Nurses (RNs) who have already earned their associate's degree in nursing, the program offers a clear track for individuals who want to gain a competitive edge in the workplace and advance in their health care career.

"We are excited to be able to offer a Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) degree for students interested in furthering their nursing education," explained Chief Strategy Officer Serjik Kesachekian. "This new RN to BSN program answers the demand for qualified nurses while enabling graduates to take their career to the next level."

With the need for well-trained nurses on the rise, nursing careers are one of the most in-demand health care jobs and show no signs of slowing down. Hospitals, physicians' offices, and other medical employers are increasingly looking to nurses to fill vital health care roles on their teams, which translates to even more job opportunities for nurses going forward.

The RN to BSN program at Glendale Career College accommodates working nurses, with a schedule designed to allow students to continue to work while attending classes. And the emphasis on career-focused course materials means students are equipped with the skills and knowledge they need to hit the ground running in the World of Work when they graduate.

"The RN to BSN program is yet another way Glendale Career College is remaining committed to providing quality education," Kesachekian shared. "We look forward to seeing its positive impact on not only our graduates, but also the patients and communities they serve."
